Comments from parents and pupils

We all enjoying getting a further insight to what is being learnt at school and find it beneficial as a family to sit and chat about school work and be able to encourage our child with his learning at home.	It's good to get the whole family involved in fun activities but we wouldn't want homework to be taking up too much time during family time.	Homework is a good idea and SHOULD be fun. It was something as a parent I looked forward to helping my daughter with. It should allow my daughter to practice but more importantly it should allow her, especially in primary school, to showcase with pride what she is learning each week allowing her to build confidence in her own ability.
They are always happy to do extra school work at home	My children are always excited to show me what they've been doing at school.	After a long day at school she struggles to engage at home as she is tired.
Hates the time it takes. Feels she learns the concept in class and that repetition is unnecessary	The eldest enjoys demonstrating his work at home, the youngest is yet to receive homework but enjoyed joining in with home schooling.	She enjoys showing what she has been doing and achieving in school
interactive homework that includes making or drawing stuff is my favourite, not just a math sheet.	I like playing homework	Makes me smarter
It is fun and exiting being able to do more work from home	I enjoy doing homework	Good because it help's me with thing that I find difficult in class so I understand more.
It makes me focus	I think it's unfair because we've worked hard in class all day and if I have out of school activities it takes up more family time.	We like to have projects
Learning new things together because the English is second language for me	I like doing homework with my mummy	It is very fun because then you also get to quiz your family
